SUBJECT: Important KapStone Announcement

We are pleased to announce today that we have entered into a definitive agreement for KapStone to be acquired by WestRock. This is an exciting development for both of our companies. By joining forces, we will create one of the largest providers of innovative paper and packaging solutions to customers around the world.

More than 10 years ago, we began a journey to build a world-class paper and packaging company with the resources and skills of our largest competitors but that also treated our customers and employees like a small, family-oriented company. We have pursued this dream together, and we should all be proud of what we have accomplished together in making KapStone the company it is today.

WestRock's interest in acquiring KapStone is a testament to the strength of the company we have built and our impressive track record of delivering value for our stockholders and customers. From our perspective, we believe that becoming part of WestRock is the next logical step for KapStone. It's in the best interest of our stockholders and customers, and we are confident it will provide even greater opportunities for employees to grow in their careers.

As we began discussions with WestRock, it became clear that our companies are an excellent fit. WestRock's business philosophy is rooted in many of the values and principles that have guided KapStone. Like KapStone, WestRock is focused on operational excellence, quality, integrity, safety, sustainability and superior customer service.

WestRock is also committed to employee engagement and ensuring their people have the tools and training they need to contribute to the success of the business and to grow personally and professionally. For the past three consecutive years, WestRock has been named to FORTUNE magazine's annual list of the World's Most Admired Companies based on its achievements across a variety of areas, including investment value, quality of management and products, social responsibility, and the ability to attract and develop talent.

Over the past several weeks, we have had the opportunity to work with key members of the leadership team at WestRock, and we can assure you that we approach the acquisition with a strong spirit of collaboration. Like KapStone, WestRock understands that this is a people business and that the true strength of our combined company is the talent and skills of our employees.

Today is just the first step in the process of combining our two companies. The transaction is subject to customary closing conditions and approval of KapStone's stockholders, and we expect it will close during the quarter ending September 30, 2018. Until that time, KapStone and WestRock will continue to operate independently. There will be no changes to your day-to-day responsibilities or, importantly, to your pay or benefits in the immediate future.

Until the acquisition is completed, it is business as usual at KapStone. One of the most important things we can do is to stay focused on putting quality, safety and customer service first as we always have. It is also important that we do not coordinate customer or market activity with WestRock employees, or engage with them directly until the transaction closes. Until that time, you should interact with WestRock employees as you would with any other competitor.

We understand that you are likely to have many questions and concerns, and we have tried to address as many as we can at this time in the attached Question and Answer document. We are committed to providing you with additional information as quickly as possible as we continue to discuss the path forward with our counterparts at WestRock. We have also included a copy of the joint press release we issued this morning for your information.

If you receive any inquiries from reporters, investors, or other outside parties, please promptly refer them to Andrea Tarbox, our Executive Vice President and Chief Financial Officer, at Andrea.Tarbox@kapstonepaper.com or 847-239-8812.

On behalf of the Board and entire leadership team, we want to thank you for your hard work and dedication to KapStone. We are excited about the opportunities that lie ahead as we begin a new chapter in our history.
