Edgar Filing: CHECK POINT SOFTWARE TECHNOLOGIES LTD - Form 6-K

Our security research organization has also continued to expose vulnerabilities in today's infrastructure, which included critical vulnerabilities in mobile equipment and applications, such as:

HummingBad – Cyber criminals utilized HummingBad malware to control 10 million mobile devices globally, allowing them to manipulate the devices into downloading apps and clicking on advertisements to benefit the coalition of developers behind the malware. Check Point researchers discovered how this illegal network ran alongside a legitimate business of Android and iOS apps and analytics, and provided the details of their network operation.

Viking Horde – The Check Point Research Team uncovered a new Android malware campaign on Google Play code named "Viking Horde." Viking Horde conducts ad fraud, but can also be used for other attack purposes such as DDoS attacks, spam messages and more.

Nuclear Exploit Kit – One of the world's largest attack infrastructures was uncovered by the Check Point Research team. Nuclear is one of the top exploit kits, both in complexity and infection. These kits are a major part of the Malware-as-a-Service industry, which facilitate the delivery of various types of malware such as ransomware and banking trojans.

"Enterprises today are faced with many challenges as they seek to address the cybersecurity demands of increasingly sophisticated security attacks across the ever-expanding corporate infrastructure. From mobility to cloud and beyond, the Check Point R80 platform with SandBlast continues to lead the way in protecting our customers from known and unknown threats. Our leadership is acknowledged by industry experts and most importantly by the success of our customers," concluded Shwed.

These risks include our ability to continue to develop platform capabilities and solutions; customer acceptance and purchase of our existing solutions and new solutions; the market for IT security continuing to develop; competition from other products and services; and general market, political, economic and business conditions. The forward-looking statements contained in this press release are also subject to other risks and uncertainties, including those more fully described in our filings with the Securities and Exchange Commission, including our Annual Report on Form 20-F filed with the Securities and Exchange Commission on April 28, 2016. #### Use of Non-GAAP Financial Information

In addition to reporting financial results in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, or GAAP, Check Point uses non-GAAP measures of net income, operating income, operating margin and earnings per diluted share, which are adjustments from results based on GAAP to exclude, as applicable, stock-based compensation charges, amortization of intangible assets and acquisition related expenses and the related tax affects. Check Point's management uses these non-GAAP financial measures to evaluate our financial performance and operating trends, including period-to-period comparisons, because they exclude certain expenses and gains that management believes are not indicative of our core operating results. Check Point's management further believes that the exclusion of these expenses and gains provides a useful measure for period-to-period comparisons of underlying core revenue and operating costs that is focused more closely on the current costs necessary to operate the company's businesses and reflects its ongoing business in a manner that allows for meaningful analysis of trends. Check Point's management believes the non-GAAP financial information provided in this release is useful to investors' understanding and assessment of Check Point's ongoing core operations and prospects for the future. Historically, Check Point has also publicly presented these supplemental non-GAAP financial measures in order to assist the investment community to see the Company "through the eyes of management," and thereby enhance understanding of its operating performance. The presentation of this non-GAAP financial information is not intended to be considered in isolation or as a substitute for results prepared in accordance with GAAP. A reconciliation of the non-GAAP financial measures discussed in this press release to the most directly comparable GAAP financial measures is included with the financial statements contained in this press release. Management uses both GAAP and non-GAAP information in evaluating and operating business internally and as such has determined that it is important to provide this information to investors.
