Item 8.01. Other Events

On October 29, 2004, the California Court of Appeals issued a decision upholding the judgment of the San Francisco Superior Court issued on May 16, 2003 in Robert Krumme, On Behalf Of The General Public vs. Mercury Insurance Company, Mercury Casualty Company, and California Automobile Insurance Company, which were adverse to, and appealed by, the Company in 2003. The Company intends to request a rehearing of the Court of Appeals decision, and, if that is denied, review by the California Supreme Court. In its ruling, the trial court issued an injunction that prevents the Company from (a) selling auto or homeowners insurance through any producer that is not appointed as an agent under Insurance Code, Section 1704, (b) selling auto or homeowners insurance through any producer that charges broker fees and (c) engaging in comparative rate advertising and failing to disclose the possibility that a broker fee may be charged. The Company's request for a rehearing will have the effect of continuing the existing stay for all but the advertising aspects of the trial court's injunction. The Company is also in discussions with plaintiff's counsel and the California Department of Insurance regarding possible changes to its business practices. Based on these possible revised business practices and other changes the Company has implemented on its own, the Company may ask the trial court to lift the injunction requiring the Company to appoint its brokers as agents, if and when the case is returned to the trial court.
