July 30, 2013

In preparing its consolidated financial information, ORIX Corporation and its subsidiaries have complied with accounting principles generally accepted in the United States of America.

These documents may contain forward-looking statements about expected future events and financial results that involve risks and uncertainties. Such statements are based on our current expectations and are subject to uncertainties and risks that could cause actual results to differ materially from those described in the forward-looking statements. Factors that could cause such a difference include, but are not limited to, those described under "Risk Factors" in the Company's annual report on Form 20-F filed with the United States Securities and Exchange Commission.

The Company believes that it will be considered a "passive foreign investment company" for United States Federal income tax purpose in the year to which these consolidated financial results relate and for the foreseeable future by reason of the composition of its assets and the nature of its income. A U.S. holder of the shares or ADSs of the Company is therefore subject to special rules generally intended to eliminate any benefits from the deferral of U.S. Federal income tax that a holder could derive from investing in a foreign corporation that does not distribute all of its earnings on a current basis. Investors should consult their tax advisors with respect to such rules, which are summarized in the Company's annual report.

Economic Environment

Although the global economy continues to carry downside risks such as decelerating growth in emerging countries and lingering uncertainties in European sovereign debt issues, we believe the risk of another serious global financial crisis is receding, with signs of improvement in the United States economy.

In the United States, private consumption has been firm on the back of increased wages and employment levels, and income and consumption in the retail sector are beginning to create a self-sustained healthy economic cycle. On the other hand, the Federal Open Market Committee (FOMC) is attracting market attention for pointing to the possibility of tapering quantitative easing (QE3) this year, although it decided to maintain the current fiscal policy back in June.

In Asia's emerging economies, China is at a standstill due to policies restricting investment and India is also experiencing slower growth. In the ASEAN region, although high growth is continuing in comparison with developed nations, the growth rate is beginning to slowdown.

In Japan, although the rapid weakening of the yen and rise in share prices that continued from the beginning of the year has subsided for the moment, the domestic economy is continuing to show signs of a moderate recovery primarily due to the effect of various economic measures and monetary easing by the Bank of Japan. Moving forward, against a background of improving company results brought about by the weakening yen and increased public investment, we expect an increase in private consumption and improvement in the domestic employment environment.

Overview of Business Performance (April 1, 2013 to June 30, 2013)

Total Revenues for the three-month period ended June 30, 2013 (hereinafter the first consolidated period) increased 11% to ¥278,924 million compared to ¥250,711 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year. Compared to the same period of the previous fiscal year, operating lease revenues increased due to increases in auto leasing in Japan and aircraft leasing overseas; life insurance premiums and related investment income increased due to increases in the number of policies in force and related investment income; and other operating revenues increased mainly due to contributions from acquired companies, growth in environment and energy business and an increase in fee revenues. Meanwhile, real estate sales decreased compared to the same period of the previous fiscal year due to a decrease in the number of condominium units sold.

Edgar Filing: ORIX CORP - Form 6-K

Total Expenses increased 5% to ¥223,629 million compared to ¥213,897 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year. Costs of operating leases and other operating expenses increased in line with an expansion in revenues, and selling, general and administrative expenses increased due to factors including corporate acquisitions. Meanwhile, interest expense decreased due to a decrease in the balance of liabilities; costs of real estate sales decreased due to a decrease in the number of condominium units sold; and write-downs of securities decreased mainly due to a decrease in write-downs recorded for non-marketable securities compared to the same period of the previous fiscal year.

Corporate Financial Services Segment

This segment is involved in lending, leasing and fee business.

In the first consolidated period, aided by the weakening yen, large domestic companies primarily in the manufacturing industry, such as automobile manufacturers, improved their revenues. In addition, there are signs of recovery in SMEs performance with the growing domestic demands resulting from increased public investments.

Segment assets decreased 2% to ¥873,205 million due to a decrease in the balance of installment loans offsetting an increase in investment in direct financing leases.

Direct financing lease revenues were solid due to an increase in average balance. On the other hand, installment loan revenues decreased in line with a decrease in the average balance of installment loans. As a result, segment revenues decreased 3% to ¥17,550 million compared to ¥18,093 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

As segment expenses increased compared to the same period of the previous fiscal year, segment profits decreased 19% to ¥4,935 million compared to ¥6,100 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

In Japan, we are seeing movement toward renewed manufacturing activities and movement to restart investment that had been put on hold including upward revision of the capital investment plans of large companies. In such an environment, revenues have remained stable due to our ability to provide customers with high value-added services that meet corporate customers' capital expenditure and cost reduction needs.

Segment revenues continued to progress steadily due to an increase in operating lease revenues, increasing 8% to ¥63,205 million compared to ¥58,437 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year. Segment revenues increased 37% to ¥31,473 million compared to ¥23,009 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year due to an increase in gains on sales of investment securities and recognition of revenues from consolidated subsidiaries acquired after the same period of the previous fiscal year despite a decrease in installment loan revenues due to absence of revenues from large collections in the loan servicing business recorded during the same period of the previous fiscal year.

In the United States, moderate recovery is continuing while private consumption and the residential markets are making gradual progress. In Asia, while growth in China and India has slowed slightly, in the ASEAN region, although high growth is continuing in comparison with developed nations, the growth rate is also beginning to slowdown.

Segment revenues increased 33% to ¥59,661 million compared to ¥45,004 million during the same period of the previous fiscal year due to an increase in gains on sales of investment securities in the United States, an increase in direct financing lease revenues in Asia, and also an increase in aircraft operating lease revenues.
