materially from current expectations depending upon a number of factors affecting New Medtronic's business, Medtronic's business, and the transactions associated with the proposed transactions. These factors include, among others, the inherent uncertainty associated with financial connection with, and successful close of, the Covidien acquisition; subsequent integration of the Covidien acquisition and the anticipated synergies and benefits of the Covidien acquisition; the risk that the required regulatory approvals for the proposed transactions are subject to conditions that are not anticipated; the anticipated size of the markets and continued demand for Medtronic's and Covidien's products and pricing; access to available financing (including financing for the acquisition or refinancing of Medtronic's debt) on a basis and on reasonable terms; the risks of fluctuations in foreign currency exchange rates; the risks and uncertainties normally associated with the medical device industry, including competition in the medical device industry; product liability claims; the difficulty of predicting the timing of litigation or government investigations; variability of trade buying patterns; the timing and success of product launches; the difficulty of predicting the outcome of product development efforts and regulatory agency approvals or actions, if any; potential for adverse pricing moves; the difficulty to enforce intellectual property rights; difficulties or delays in manufacturing; reduction or interruption in supply; product quality issues; the quality of third-party sourced products and materials; risks associated with self-insurance and commercial insurance; successful completion of the acquisition applicable to New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and Covidien's facilities, products and/or businesses; changes in the laws and regulations applicable to things, pricing and reimbursement of pharmaceutical products; health care policy changes; risks associated with international operations; interpretations that could increase New Medtronic's, Medtronic's and/or Covidien's consolidated tax liabilities, including, if applicable, changes in tax laws that would result in New Medtronic being treated as a domestic corporation for United States federal tax purposes; the loss of management or scientific staff; and such other risks and uncertainties detailed in Medtronic's periodic public filings with the SEC, including Medtronic's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended April 25, 2014, in Covidien's periodic public filings with the SEC, including Covidien's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the fiscal year ended September 27, 2013, and from time to time in Medtronic's and Covidien's communications.
