Merger Progress Continues

NU and NSTAR continue to work toward finalizing the merger, with activity in a number of areas occurring over the past several weeks.

You'll find details in this Merger Update newsletter on the status of some key regulatory approvals and their effects on the merger process, FIT work and industry news on the merger. Thanks to all NU and NSTAR employees for your continued focus on delivering great service to customers.

Updates on Regulatory Approvals and Merger Timing

MDPU On October 31, NU and NSTAR filed their final reply brief as part of merger proceedings before the Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities (MDPU).

The brief reiterated both companies' strong belief that the proposed merger should be approved, as it satisfies the MDPU's net benefit standard, providing benefits for customers and the environment.

The brief responded to final comments from intervenors, which were made by the Massachusetts Attorney General, the Massachusetts Department of Energy Resources (DOER), the Conservation Law Foundation, Cape Wind Associates and other organizations.

The final intervenor comments were similar in scope to comments in initial briefs filed in early October, specifically: (1) requesting the MDPU to place various conditions on the merger relating to rates and sharing of cost savings; and (2) asking for substantial environmental benefits as part of the merger.

FITs Achieve Milestone: As-Is Work Complete

On Tuesday, November 15, all Functional Integration Team (FIT) leads met with members of the Integration Program Management Office (IPMO) and have now wrapped up their as-is work assessing the status of each company's functions. I want to thank and congratulate all the FIT leads and subject matter experts at both companies for their significant work over the past several months on this effort," said David McHale, IPMO lead.

In the coming weeks the teams will now be focusing on key Day One action items and deliverables. Of the 129 Day One requirements, 27 are fully complete, 28 have planning completed but cannot be executed until closing and 74 remain in progress or will be started before the

NU and NSTAR argued that the MDPU cannot impose conditions beyond its scope of authority, such as an immediate rate freeze or rate credit. NU and NSTAR also noted the merger will provide environmental benefits, as both companies have already met green legislation requirements in Massachusetts and are increasing commitments to energy efficiency, solar and electric vehicle initiatives.

The MDPU now has time to consider the briefs and make its final decision in the merger proceeding. Based on previous merger reviews, it is expected the MDPU will issue a final decision in the next one to two months.

DOER Motion Over the summer, the DOER filed a motion with the MDPU requesting a comprehensive review of NSTAR's rates as part of the merger proceeding. A hearing on that motion has been postponed, as NU, NSTAR and the DOER are currently working together to narrow and discuss the issues presented in the motion. A new hearing date has not been set.

NRC Review Pending As part of the merger process, a filing was made with the Nuclear Regulatory Commission (NRC) last year seeking consent to the transfer to NU of NSTAR's indirect control of ownership interest in three decommissioned nuclear plants. The NRC has indicated it will complete its review by the end of November.

Merger Timing and Day One NU and NSTAR continue to believe the merger can be completed in 2011, but due to the timing of final approvals it is possible that the closing of the merger may occur in early 2012. Whether later this quarter or early in 2012, NU and NSTAR remain confident the merger will be approved. We will keep employees informed as a Day One date is finalized.

2011 EEI Conference

At the Edison Electric Institute (EEI) Financial Conference held in early November, NU and NSTAR conducted a joint presentation to provide attendees with information about the companies and the merger. After the meeting, two industry analysts upgraded their assessments of both NU and NSTAR, which demonstrates continued support of the companies and the merger.
