PRESS RELEASE

Amsterdam, 22 September 2014

ING Group included in leading banks indices

ING Group will, as of today, be included in the EURO STOXX[®] Banks Index, with a weighting of 3.83%, and in the STOXX[®] Europe 600 Banks Index, with a weighting of 7.60%. As announced by STOXX Limited today and on 26 August 2014, this is the result of a regular quarterly component review conducted by STOXX Limited, an established and leading index specialist.

ING also remains a constituent in several other STOXX indices, including its European benchmark STOXX[®] Europe 50 and the Eurozone benchmark EURO STOXX[®] 50.

The component selection lists that are used for STOXX[®] indices are based on the Industry Classification Benchmark (ICB). In June 2014, ICB reclassified ING Group from the Life Insurance subsector into Banks.

Separately, in August 2014, ING Group's Industry Group classification changed from Diversified Financials to Banks under the Global Industry Classification Standard (GICS[®]).

Following the June reclassification, FTSE International Limited implemented several index changes, including designating ING Group as a constituent in the FTSEurofirst Euro Banks Index and the FTSEurofirst Banks Index.
