Wintergreen Advisers to Vote Against Bill McMunn in 2011 elections of Consolidated-Tomoka Land Company

April 19, 2011

Wintergreen Advisers, LLC ("Wintergreen") supports all but one of the matters presented in this year's Consolidated-Tomoka Land Company ("CTO") proxy. Wintergreen supports the improved corporate governance concerning annual election of directors. It also supports continuing the engagement of KPMG LLP as independent auditor and agrees with the CTO board on its support of three of the four director candidates. However, Wintergreen does not support the possible re-election of outgoing Chief Executive Officer Bill McMunn to the board of directors of CTO for another three-year term, and intends to vote against him at the 2011 annual meeting. As outlined in detail below, Wintergreen believes it is not in shareholders' best interests to have the outgoing executive of this company serve as a director for years after retiring from the company.

Edgar Filing: CONSOLIDATED TOMOKA LAND CO - Form SC 13D/A

CTO's by-laws require director candidates to offer their resignation if they do not receive a majority of the votes cast in an uncontested election. If the number of votes cast "AGAINST" Bill McMunn exceeds the number of votes cast "FOR" him, he must offer his resignation and the board seat may be filled by a majority vote of the directors then in office or may be left vacant until filled by the incoming CEO.

Advisory clients of Wintergreen have been investors in CTO since February 2006, and collectively represent the company's largest group of shareholders with 27% of the shares outstanding. Wintergreen does not seek control of CTO or its board of directors, and is not proposing any candidates for election to the board. (1) No Wintergreen officer or employee sits on the CTO board, nor has any employee or officer of Wintergreen ever sought such a role. Wintergreen has in the past proposed strong independent director candidates to add more depth of experience and expertise to the board. This year Wintergreen supports every candidate on CTO's ballot other than Bill McMunn.

(1) While Wintergreen is not currently proposing a candidate, it nominated Howard C. Serkin, one of the current nominees on CTO's 2011 ballot in November, 2010. Mr. Serkin is independent from Wintergreen.

CTO recently announced that Bill McMunn will be retiring from his position as CEO as of December 31, 2011. As CTO begins its search for a new Chief Executive Officer, Wintergreen believes Bill McMunn's seat should be left vacant until it is filled by the company's new CEO. Wintergreen believes Bill McMunn's presence on the board for another three year term will make it more difficult to attract a bright new CEO. Potential CEO candidates are likely to be unenthusiastic about the possibility of the former CEO looking over his or her shoulder. The real estate market is not what it used to be, and as such, CTO is in need of a new CEO with energy, fresh ideas and strategies for the company. Improvements will be more difficult to implement if the Board of Directors continues to operate under the shadow of a former CEO who has his own old-school ideas.

Additionally, CTO's board currently has 11 members, which is the maximum number allowed under CTO's by-laws. In practical terms, this means that if Bill McMunn is re-elected this year, a current director will have to step down to open a board seat for the incoming CEO. Wintergreen maintains that much progress has been made in recent years in strengthening the Board of Directors, and better preparing the company for the inevitable rebound in the Florida real estate market. Wintergreen believes keeping Bill McMunn on the CTO board undermines this recent progress.

In a letter to CTO's board dated March 10, 2011, Wintergreen urged Bill McMunn to reconsider his standing for re-election this year so that CTO may move on with new management and a strong and independent Board of Directors. Unfortunately, Mr. McMunn has been unresponsive and his name has not been withdrawn from the ballot.

Wintergreen wishes Bill McMunn a long and healthy retirement, but can see no rational business reason for him to remain on CTO's Board of Directors. Wintergreen believes it is in the best interests of CTO and all its shareholders for the company to move forward without Bill McMunn as a board member. Accordingly, Wintergreen intends to vote "AGAINST" Bill McMunn on the company's proxy.
